December 4, 2018

According to Bruce Washington, everyone needs a naked room – a place where you can recoup and reenergize. As an architect, Bruce assists in designing and building such places, as well as most any other type of place in a commercial or residential setting. Bruce has worked closely with DBA’s interior designer, Lynn Hood, on many design/build residential projects. Key questions for anyone considering a remodel project are: What’s the budget and what are you wanting to accomplish? Once these questions are answered, Bruce can put together a plan to accomplish the goals, with a result that will improve one’s quality of life.
