At our previous meeting Tamela Johnston discussed “Alternatives in Medicine”. When her 2 sons were diagnosed with autism, she decided that their must be a better way to better health other than through medication. She obtained a masters degree in oriental medicine which combines the skills and knowledge of acupuncture with a deep concentration and practice in Chinese herbs. This knowledge enabled her to establish a practice that treats the whole person with a multi-disciplinary knowledge base and clinical acumen. Tamela encourages the use of supplements to provide the nutrients that our bodies need. She states that discipline, moderation, and knowledge are key components of a more healthy life.
